The proposition was so well-received that an edict was formulated on the same day. Kenneth J. In lieu of an abstract, here is a brief excerpt of the content: Books Received. Ikedahasengagedinnumerousdialogueswithleadersandscholarsfromaround the world. Assessing fascinating correspondences between the Confucian and Buddhist world-views, and discussing New Horizons in Eastern Humanism: Buddhism thinkers as Mencius, Nichiren, Zhang zai, Spinoza, Gandhi, Max Weber, Levinas, Okada Takehiko, Tang Junyi, and Habermas, the interlocutors commit themselves to a view of spirituality and religion that, without blurring cultural difference, is focused above all on the 'universal heart': on a notion of harmony between people and nature that leads finally to peace and to a hopeful future for all humanity.
