The saints have said that a holy family is a struggling family. Throughout his formation in seminary, he will be encouraged to maintain and develop family relationships through occasional visits and by frequent communication. It is common for families to have pictures of family members displayed in the home. Undoubtedly, parents want the best for their children. We have been lucky to have his fellow seminarians visit us while we were living in Germany. The problem is, they may be right. About a third of the respondents said that the most functional, loving model of married life in the household is very beneficial, several healthy models of marriage are present in the lives of children and young adults among neighbors, extended family, parishioners, coaches, and teachers, to name only a .
